Programs

- Common Services Layer (PUB-P-0001)
- Forgot User ID/Password Email Generation (PUB-P-0002)

Common Services Layer (PUB-P-0001)

General Information

When the user needs to link to a document (i.e. pdf) that is stored within the EMC, parameters are supplied to a Common Services Layer (CSL) that is passed to the ECM retrieval program.

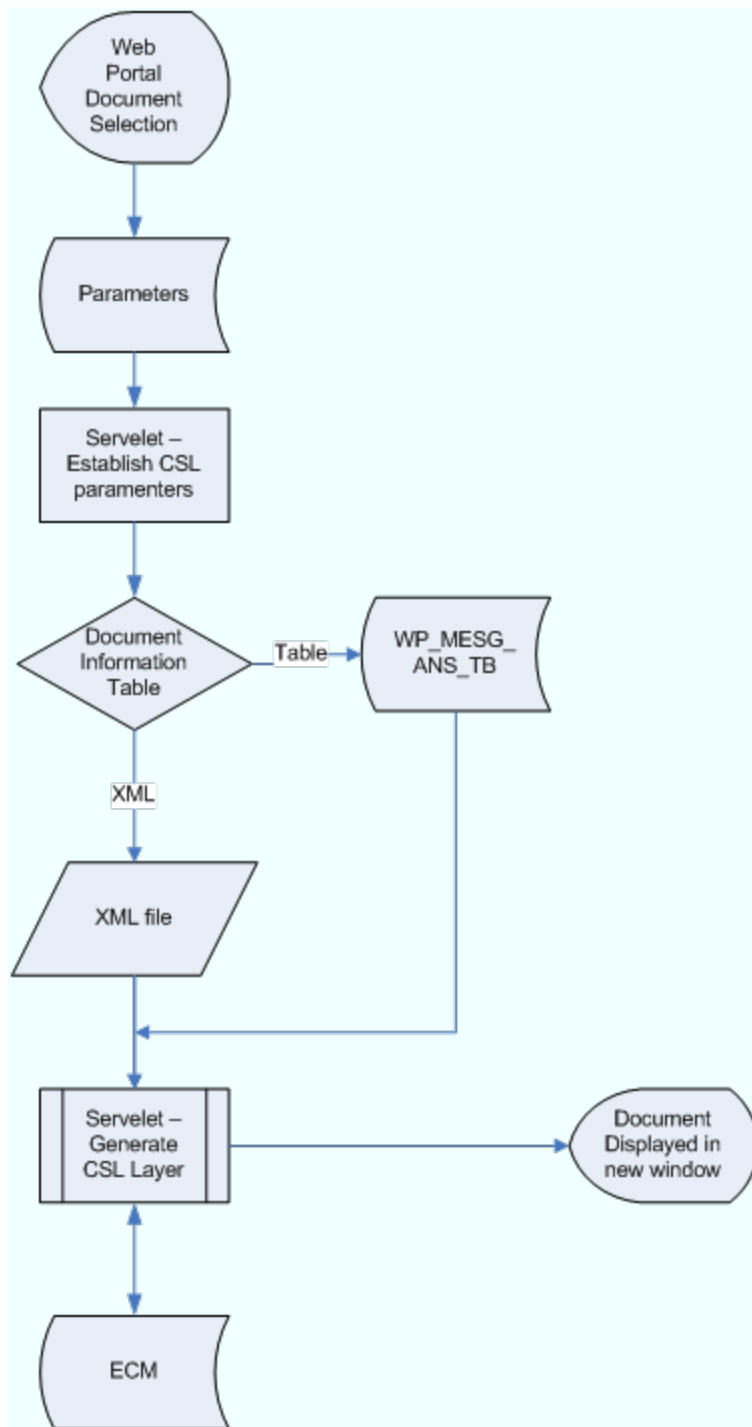

The ECM retrieves the document based on the parameters supplied and returns the document to the Web portal for display.

The portal passes parameters from the portal link to this program. Based on these parameters, the program will either retrieve information from the WP_MESG_ANS_TB (PUB-T-0004) or utilize what was in the passed parameters.

The information is used to generate the the CSL and trigger the WebServices call to retrieve the document from the ECM.

Once returned the document is displayed in a new portal window.

Process

Forgot User ID/Forgot Password Email Generation (PUB-P-0002)

General Information

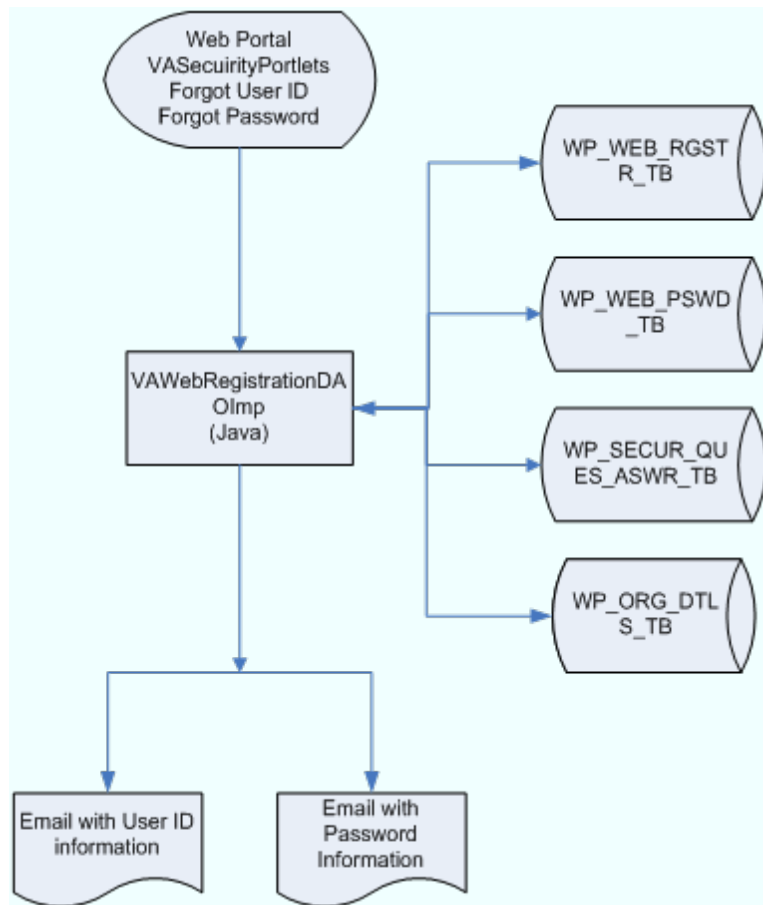

When the user forgets their User ID or password, they can take advantage of the portal's self service functionality and utilize the information that was established at the time they generated a security profile.

This program will validate the information entered for either a forgotten User ID (PDE-0006) or password (PDE-0459).

For a forgotten User ID, the user will furnish their email address and the associated NPI/API. For a forgotten password, the user will furnish their User ID.

If this information is validated, then the three security questions established by the user will be presented. If the user answers the questions correctly this program automatically generates the appropriate email containing either the User ID or the password and sends it to the user email address on file for this user's profile.

General Information

This screen is used for accessing information on the Electronic Health Records Incentive program. The page has multiple links to federal and state information for the incentive program.

For providers that service bordering states, this page furnishes reports for downloading that will give the provider the total number of claims submitted for Virginia. There will be a report for practitioners and a second for hospitals. These can assist the providers in determining which state to apply for the incentive program.

This screen will be used by providers and accessed from the public portal, so no authorization is necessary to get the incentive program information.
